Dominique Dawes
Three-Time Olympic Gymnast, Olympic Gold Medalist, & First African American Gymnast to Qualify for the Olympic Games

How to Climb the Mountaintop
Dominique Dawes wows audiences with her honest, funny, and inspiring look at life as a three-time Olympic gymnast. As part of the “Magnificent Seven” at the 1996 Atlanta games, Dawes won gold, but also learned her greatest lesson: the pain of failure is always an opportunity for growth. After slipping in her individual floor routine and immediately falling out of contention for an All-Around gold medal, Dawes was heartbroken but resolute on continuing her career and becoming a beacon of hope in a sport that strives for near-impossible standards.

Years later, Dawes is committed to teaching audiences around the world that failure fuels the mind and body to achieve things they could have never imagined possible. With a unique ability to connect with audiences, Dawes shares her thoughts on the power of the mind and positive thoughts, the importance of healthy self-esteem, why teamwork means checking your ego at the door, and why every person’s contributions matter — no matter how high or low on the totem pole they may seem to be. A roller coaster look at the life of an Olympian, Dawes leaves audiences laughing, crying, and inspired to be their best.

In Your Business

Jim Meil
Principal, Industry Analysis, ACT Research Co, LLC

U.S. Economy and Business Outlook – is this the pause that refreshes, or end of the road?
When the AGMA/ABMA Annual Meeting convenes in March 2020, the U.S. economy could be at a critical juncture — global business conditions have weakened, the U.S. manufacturing sector saw solid momentum give way to flattish trends as 2019 progressed, and fears of a recession — perhaps triggered by a nasty and negative political and election cycle — seem to be more than just idle speculation.

But it’s also possible that 2020 might see a reenergized economy and industrial sector. The Federal Reserve has cut interest rates, the stock market is reaching record levels, consumers are confident and corporate profits are on solid ground. Most of the businesses served by AGMA/ABMA members are highly sensitive to the economic cycle. Insights into the pace of the economy and particularly its durability are critical for effective business planning. Jim Meil’s analysis has helped meeting attendees determine the momentum of the domestic economy, and the direction of interest rates, capital spending, manufacturing activity, international economic strength, and business confidence, all key to members, suppliers and customers. Additionally, he will offer comments on the “hot button” issues of the day.

A.B. Stoddard
Associate Editor and Columnist, RealClear Politics
Current Political Outlook

Nonpartisan, Stoddard addresses elections and the political landscape of the day. Frequently meeting with sources and politicians of all stripes, Stoddard has her finger on the pulse of Washington, DC as she offers detailed and smart political and electoral analyses. Stoddard will cover the five biggest stories in the news, the most up-to-date happenings between Congress and the White House, ongoing budget battles and the electoral prospects for the two parties.

Stoddard is an associate editor and columnist with political news site and polling data aggregator RealClearPolitics, and a contributor and guest host for SiriusXM’s POTUS Channel. She appears regularly on Fox News Channel, Fox Business Network, CNN, and MSNBC for her expertise as a political commentator. She is a former associate editor and columnist for The Hill newspaper.

Peter Zeihan
Geopolitical Strategist
The End of the World ... and Other Opportunities

With a lively non-partisan approach backed by a decade in private intelligence, Zeihan will show attendees exactly why their world is changing fast—and how they can get ahead of it. Zeihan illustrates how geography redefines global power, how demographics doom the current trade order, and how the shale revolution is triggering international collapses from Russia to Iran to China. Conflicts Russian, Middle Eastern and Asian are about to trigger the greatest energy crisis in history. Dozens of countries are slipping into deflationary spirals from which there is little hope of escape. And America’s swerving into demagogic populism will unhangle its entire alliance network. The world as we know it is in its final days. Find out how and why it all came to be, how and why it is all falling apart. But most of all find out how the world’s end heralds the greatest expansion in American power and security in the history of the Republic.
